SHOPLIFTER IS CAPTURED HERE

Clarence Kuhn, 17 Years Old, Makes Good Haul, Taking Violin and Four Meerschaum Pipes.

GETS $10 AND SIXTY DAYS

Policeman Walter Catchers Him at Hitchrack as he is About to Leave City.

Clarence Kuhn, the seventeen-year-old son of John Kuhn, living three miles southeast of Arlington, pleaded guilty to a petit larceny charge in police court this morning, and was fined $10 and costs and given sixty days in jail. The affidavit charged him with taking four Meerschaum pipes valued at $15 from T. W. Betker.

Kuhn also took a violin belonging to Jesse Drake from the 99c store. He has not been tried yet for taking the violin as the officers wished to determine the value and to see if the offense constitutes grand larceny. It was at the Jones store that Kuhn got in bad with the law. He was noticed in there Saturday afternoon, but due to the rush of business he was not watched very closely. He was in the rear of the store and while there he took the violin.

Mr. Drake missed his property and notified Policeman Walter. A search was started and young Kuhn was found just as he was driving away from the hitchrack. The officer searched the buggy and found the violin and four pipes. Kuhn was taken to jail and held until this morning. The young shoplifter was in the Betker Shop early in the afternoon, but Mr. Betker never missed anything until asked by Policeman Walter if he was not short some pipes. Mr. Betker on going through the stock found four pipes missing and identified the ones Kuhn had as belonging to him.

At the jail Kuhn was searched and a revolver and several knives were found. He declared that he bought the revolver in Indianapolis. When arraigned before Mayor Black he admitted taking the pipes and violin. Saturday when Mr. Drake and Policeman Walter started to find Kuhn, the only description they had was from the clerks at the Jones store, who had seen him. Their attention was attracted when Kuhn left the store carrying a bundle under his arm.

The violin is valued at $25 by Mr. Drake and in case another affidavit is filed, Kuhn will be charged with grand larceny. The finding of the goods on Kuhn was conclusive evidence and he offered no excuse. The finding of the pipes came as a surprise as the only thing supposed to be missing was the violin.

Miss Mabel Foley of Greensburg has something on a majority of Indiana school teachers. In the winter she teaches in the Glenwood schools, and in the summer at Langdon, North Dakota. In that extreme northwestern State, the winters are so cold that it is next to impossible to hold school in the winter time, and the children are given the rudiments of an education in the summer. In this manner Miss Foley manages to be employed the year around. As soon as the Glenwood schools close, she will leave for Langdon.

FALL IS FATAL TO MARGARET STEWART

Aged Woman Succumbs at Home of Daughter, Mrs. Taylor Kitchen
—Is Last of Family.

TWO DAUGHTERS SURVIVE

Mrs. Margaret Stewart, 90 years old, died this morning at 4:20 o'clock at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Taylor Kitchen in West Third street. Last Thursday Mrs. Stewart fell sustaining a broken hip and due to her advanced age recovery was very doubtful.

Mrs. Stewart had been ill for some time, but the direct cause of her death was the shock from the fall. She was one of the oldest women in the county being ninety years old the fifth day of last July. Mrs. Stewart was the oldest and last of her family. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Taylor Kitchen and Mrs. W. O. Frazee.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Kitchen residence conducted by the Rev. A. W. Jamieson, assisted by the Rev. J. B. Meacham. Burial will take place in the Richland cemetery.

GREENSBURG IS OUT WITH A KICK

Complains About Injustice Indianapolis Trade Association Doesn't Intend in Brookville Visit.

NOT TO BOOST LOCAL ROUTE

The Greensburg News registers a complaint because of the proposed trip of the Indianapolis Trade Association to Brookville tomorrow night. It was reported, and understood, evidently, by the News, that the members of the Trade Association were going to Brookville to boost the movement to extend the I. & C. lines from this city, by way of Brookville, to Cincinnati. It is pointed by those in touch with the situation that the Trade Association does not intend to take any hand in the fight for the extension, but that its trip to Brookville is in line with the campaign it started two years ago to get some business from Southeastern Indiana towns, which have been in the habit of doing most of their buying in Cincinnati. The Trade Association has already visited Rushville, Connersville and Greensburg. The News goes to some length to warn the Trade Association to keep hands off.

DECLARES FOR EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Thomas Brooks Fletcher Says Country Will Become "Dry" When Women Get to Vote.

LAST BIG MEET OF YEAR

Points Out That World is Advancing in Lecture on "The Martyrdom of Fools."

An audience that filled the auditorium of the Main Street Christian church heard Thomas Brooks Fletcher yesterday afternoon. The meeting was the last of the Men's Big Meetings of the winter and like the one of a week ago was open to women. Mr. Fletcher changed his lecture and instead of talking on "The Tragedies of the Unprepared," took for his subject "The Martyrdom of Fools."

This subject, according to Mr. Fletcher, is very dangerous because people are so sensitive and only a few can see themselves as others see them. In his "rapid fire" manner the speaker flayed the present industrial, social and political conditions. Mr. Fletcher is an advocate of woman suffrage, and his statement that the entire United States would have woman suffrage within fifteen years was greeted with prolonged applause. As over half the audience was composed of women, his remarks were well received.

According to Mr. Fletcher there are two kinds of fools—the real ones and the kind we mistake for fools. The real fools are the greatest object lesson we have. "We learn something from every fool we meet," said Mr. Fletcher. He declared that a little conceit is a good thing, but that we learn nothing from conceit of ignorance.

"One way to never make fools of ourselves is never to make fools of ourselves," said the speaker. Continuing he said, "There are fools who try to please the whole neighborhood. This type of fool belongs to the mob that is always ready to yell 'crucify!' Today we are applying the Christ idea to industrial, social and political problems. The man who votes the straight ticket simply because his father's, father's father voted that particular ticket is always crooked or has no mind of his own." Mr. Fletcher declared that unbiased opinion and nonpartisanship should rule in all phases of public life.

"It is very easy to follow a precedent but very difficult to set one," said Mr. Fletcher, and the reason for that is—the majority do not think. People who live ahead of their time are called themselves fanatics and whatnot. Many have met death thinking ahead of their time. The majority want to be content to adhere to the inherited theory. We are advancing and gradually getting away from this theory. There is no place for the pessimist or the demagogue today. The optimist and the pessimist are both wrong and we do not martyr them as we did, thus showing we are advancing."

Mr. Fletcher to show that we are advancing stated that the ministers of today are not bothered by the church board and are not dictated to as to what not to preach. A member of the church board no longer goes to the preacher and demands a sermonette in capsule form which is easy to take. He stated that the same was true in newspaper work. It used to be that a corporation controlling a public utility could dictate to a newspaper on that threat of drawing its advertising. "This condition exists today but not as much so as in the past." Publicity is the

OSBORNE OUT WITH DEFENSE

Greensburg Attorney Declares he Was Not Party to Contract in Connolly Case.

SAYS CASE WAS A HARD ONE

Former District Chairman Asserts
Lola Connolly Took Time to Discuss Size of Fee.

"I did not get what I have by robbing my clients, and I will say, without any desire to boast, that we have a clientage of such importance as will refute the allegation on its face."

John E. Osborne, former Democratic chairman of the Sixth district, made this statement in reply to a charge made by Mrs. Lola L. Wright Connolly of Indianapolis in a suit filed here last week, in which Frank J. Hall, lieutenant governor, his law partner, George W. Campbell, Attorneys Ulic Z. Wiley and Arthur H. Jones of Indianapolis and John E. Osborne and Lewis A. Harding of Greensburg are made defendants.

The suit is directed against these attorneys to redeem property from a mortgage, the demand being for $1,716, which Mrs. Connolly says has been illegally retained.

Mrs. Connolly brought suit against the estate of her grandmother, America Duke, and the case was heard in the Decatur circuit court. The defendants named in the present suit were her attorneys in the former litigation. She alleges that they were employed on a contingent fee of 25 per cent.

The suit was tried in Greensburg for more than a week and then ended in a compromise which was believed to have been satisfactory to all parties.

Mr. Osborne said that a statement covering all the facts would be too voluminous for the average person to read even if he were interested enough to undertake it.

"I was not a party to the contract for a 25 per cent fee," he said. "Our compensation was not fixed except that it was to be a reasonable charge. When the time comes we will produce prominent lawyers from the neighboring bars to show that our fee was reasonable. All the facts will be presented to the court at the proper time. We have nothing to conceal."

Mr. Osborne said that the case was a hard one and that he believed the settlement was the best one he had ever made in all of the fifteen years of his practice.

"As a matter of fact I made the settlement myself through Judge Sparks, her attorney, and got her several thousand dollars more than she wanted to settle for on the Saturday night before. She insisted on making a settlement for a great deal less. I did not get what I have by robbing my clients. If that were my practice, instead of having more than I could do I would now have lots of leisure."

Mr. Osborne continued: "She says she didn't imply me. If I wasn't her attorney, I am at a loss to know who I appeared for. Again, if a lawyer who wasn't employed at all got such a large fee, what would he have received if he had been employed? She says it was a $9,000 settlement, while as a matter of fact, it was an $11,000 settlement."

"Now I will tell you who were present when the question of fee was discussed. She says that she did not know about the settlement of the fee question. Nobody knows better than she that that is false. Mr. Hall, George Campbell, Arthur Jones of Indianapolis, Mr. Harding and myself and Mrs. Connolly, her husband and her father were present at the time the settlement was made and the question of fee was discussed. I had already served notice that I could not take the case on a per cent but had agreed to take a reasonable fee. In view of the fact that we had the odds against us in the fight I believe our charges were reasonable."

Mr. Osborne also pointed out that one may not employ three law firms for the same price as one, and that it is customary where the fee is contingent upon winning the suit to make it about double the ordinary fee. A lawyer, as well as anybody else, is entitled to something for taking the hazard, since there is always the chance in a contingent proposition of getting nothing out of it.

FUNERAL HELD SUNDAY

Sad Rites Over Body of W. R. Pearce
at Dunreith.

The funeral services of William R. Pearce, who died at his home in Dunreith, were held at the late home Sunday afternoon at two o'clock with the Masonic lodge of which he was a member in charge. For forty years continuously he was a merchant and postmaster at Dunreith. Later he was employed at the soldiers' and sailors' orphans' home near Knightstown, but was compelled to give up that position on account of poor health. His wife and son died a few years ago, and he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. D. H. Hudson of Dunreith, at whose home he died.

DR. A. G. SHAUCK IS OUT FOR CORONER

Arlington Physician Announces he Will Seek Nomination Again at Republican Convention.

PUBLIC LETTER TO DELEGATES

Dr. A. G. Shauck of Arlington, present county coroner, announced today that he will go before the Republican county convention next Saturday and seek re-nomination for the office of county coroner. It has been rumored that Dr. Shauck would be a candidate, but he had never confirmed that until today. Dr. Lowell M. Green of this city announced his candidacy for the same nomination only last week. These are the only two candidates. That Dr. Shauck has filled the office well is evidenced by the fact that he has been solicited by delegates, according to his assertions in the following public letter addressed to the delegates, to become a candidate again:

To the delegates to the Rush County Republican Convention:

Gentlemen—I desire to inform you that I am a candidate for the nomination for coroner of Rush county, and to solicit your support in the convention next Saturday. From time to time since you have been selected, I have, as opportunity offered, stated to quite a number of the delegates that I am a candidate. I am taking this step at the earnest solicitations of some of your number and of many of my friends who are not delegates. Owing to the deplorable and mysterious death of Mrs. Harris and the long and tedious investigation incident thereto in connection with my office, I have been compelled to forego the pleasure of meeting all of you personally, to talk it over with you. I therefore avail myself of the only means I have of asking your support.

Very Respectfully,

A. G. SHAUCK.

SIXTH HANGING IN THE BALANCE

Although Taft Has Majority of Three Delegates, Result of Convention is Doubtful.

WATSON IS ONE OF "BIG FOUR"

Taft Has Good Majority in State
Convention to Meet Tomorrow—Senatorial Thursday.

Both the Taft and Roosevelt adherents are laying claim to the Sixth district. Although Taft, from the latest reports of the primaries held Friday and Saturday in every county in the district except Rush, now seem to have a shade of advantage, it is doubtful if the question as to whether Taft or Roosevelt delegates to the national convention will be elected, will be settled to a certainty until after the convention is held at Connersville next Thursday afternoon.

Of all the fights for control in the thirteen districts of the State, none will be as closely contested or as bitter as will the one in this district. The Taft leaders in the State have always looked on this district as being very doubtful and it is said now that the results were more pleasing than were expected. Although Fayette county elected an almost complete Roosevelt slate, the Taft forces made some inroads in Wayne county by naming eight Taft delegates out of the total twenty-six.

The line-up as it now appears to be, will give the Sixth district two Taft delegates to the State convention. Col. W. H. Elliott, editor and publisher of the Newcastle Courier, will most likely be one of the candidates. This is the way the delegates to the district convention were reported to be lined up this afternoon:

Total Taft Roose
Rush	14	10 4
Wayne	26	8 18
Union	5	2 1/2 2 1/2
Franklin	7	7
Henry	18	15 3
Fayette	11	1 10
Hancock	10	3 7
Shelby	15	8 7
	54 1/2	51 1/2

The delegates to the State convention from the Sixth district are in about the same ratio. Fayette county elected a solid Roosevelt delegation of eleven to the State convention and split the district delegation, ten to one in favor of Roosevelt. This would give Taft an advantage of one in the district, were it not for Rush county's split which will offset the advantage. Here the district delegation is ten to four in favor of Taft, and the State delegation eleven to three in favor of Taft.

The Sixth district convention will be in the Auditorium opera house in Connersville Thursday afternoon. It was first planned to hold the meeting in the Odd Fellows hall there, and later decided it would be too small.

The State convention to elect four delegates-at-large to the national convention will be held in Indianapolis tomorrow. The delegates from the eight counties in the Sixth district will meet in the State house, room 55 tonight, to organize.

James E. Watson of this city will be elected one of the delegates-at-large to Chicago tomorrow. The other three slated to be chosen are Harry N. New, Charles N. Fairbanks and Joseph D. Oliver of South Bend.

The joint senatorial convention of Rush, Hancock and Fayette counties which will be held in Connersville on Thursday morning, promises a pretty race. Chauncey Duncan and Walter Bridges, both of Greenfield, are the only candidates, since Henry E. Guffin of this county withdrew. Both are laying claim to the nomination.

FIERCE BATTLE IS IN PROSPECT

Taft and Roosevelt Forces Line Up In Indiana.

CONTEST FOR THE DELEGATION

Just Now There is Every Indication That Tomorrow's Convention to Select Delegates to the National Convention at Chicago Will Be One of the Most Vigorously Contested Fights in State History.

Indianapolis, March 25.—The contest being waged between the Taft and Roosevelt forces for the control of the Republican state convention, which meets tomorrow in Indianapolis to select four national delegates at large, is best described as "a horse race."

Returns received from all parts of the state indicated that the contending forces would be evenly matched in the Tuesday line-up, with the result in doubt. In the convention there will be 1,439 delegates, with 720 necessary to a majority. Reports received by Harry S. New at Taft headquarters gave Taft a decided lead. Mr. New's figures were 780 5-14 delegates for Taft and 609 9-14 for Roosevelt, with 49 delegates unaccounted for.

Edwin M. Lee, Roosevelt chairman, predicted a lead of 150 for Roosevelt, if not more, when the convention is opened. Mr. Lee gave no total estimate on the number of Taft and Roosevelt delegates in the convention according to his reports.

Returns received by newspapers show the result to be in doubt. The question of control of the convention is complicated by the possibility of contests to be brought by both factions. For example, the Roosevelt men will make an effort to throw out the 129 Taft delegates from Marion county.

This situation centers great interest in the committee on credentials, which will be composed of one delegate from each congressional district. In the event the Roosevelt forces gain control in seven or eight districts the credentials committee report might declare the Taft delegates from Marion county unseated. On the other hand the report will have to come before the convention for adoption or rejection. If the contested delegates are not permitted to vote on their own eligibility to seats, it is probable each side will see that enough contests are filed to offset the handicap imposed by the other side.

It appears now that the advantage held by the side having the temporary organization may settle the outcome of the convention's work. The Republican state committee is favorable to Taft.

Indications are that the convention will be one of the liveliest and most interesting in the history of the Republican party in Indiana.

DEATH FOR FRITZ

Court Says Man Who Murdered Guard Must Hang.

Jeffersonville, Ind., March 25.—John Fritz, twenty-one years old, who was convicted in the Clark circuit court March 15, on the charge of murder in killing Guard Hiram B. McWilliams at the Indiana reformatory Nov. 21, has been sentenced by Judge Montgomery to be hanged Friday, June 14.

A motion for a new trial was overruled and an order was given Sheriff Carr to remove the prisoner to the Indiana state prison, Michigan City, where the execution will take place. Fritz had nothing to say, but tears came into his eyes once or twice as Judge Montgomery talked to him. His father is serving a life sentence at Michigan City and a brother is at the reformatory. Fritz came from Bedford Sept. 4, 1907, to serve from one to fourteen years on the charge of larceny.

May Pass the 1875 Mark.

Hazleton, Ind., March 25.—White, Wabash and Patoka rivers are out of their banks and doing immense damage in their valleys. Rising each day for a week, White river has passed the twenty-foot stake, and it is feared will not stop before reaching a stage of twenty-five feet, one foot above the high water mark set in 1875.

Life Term For Littrell.

Boonville, Ind., March 25.—The jury in the case of Thomas Littrell, charged with murder of Tony Jong on a pleasure barge on the Ohio river near Evansville last September, returned a verdict of guilty of second degree murder. Littrell was immediately sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge Roberts.

Aged Woman Burned to Death.

Madison, Ind., March 25.—Mrs. Caroline Hutchinson, an elderly woman, was burned to death at her home eighteen miles north of the city, when her bedclothing caught fire. Her son, who was at the barn, came in and found her unconscious, too late to save her.

South Bend, Ind., March 25.—Despondent because of failure to obtain employment, L. C. Wack, fifty-five years old, committed suicide.

H. H. BINGHAM

"Father of the House" Dead at His Home in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, March 25.—Henry H. Bingham, Republican, member of the congress from the First Pennsylvania district, and "father of the house," is dead at his home here. He had been a member of the house continuously since March 4, 1879. He was seventy-one years old.

MOUNTAINEERS STILL ELUDE DETECTIVES

No Clue to the Members of the Allen Gang.

Mt. Airy, N. C., March 25.—When detectives had visions of fat rewards and the capture of the remaining four outlaws, who appear to be able to take care of themselves when it comes to a showdown, it was demonstrated that the Virginia outlaws can at least outwit the officers. It looked easy enough, for the information was that the outlaws would take breakfast with a certain friend at a specified hour, and while thus engaged the detectives would quietly walk in and capture them without resistance, but the outlaws ate their breakfast several miles from where they were billed and are as free as ever, though the detectives searched every house at the foot of the mountains, from the Fancy Gap to the Ward Gap roads and swinging in a circle around the section where the outlaws are known to be hiding.

Jack Allen, brother of Floyd and Sidna Allen and father of Friel, was seen riding through the section where the outlaws are hiding, and the explanation of his conduct was that he was searching for his son with a view to have him surrender to the authorities.

GOING ALONG

Roosevelt's Indiana Boomers Will Join the Colonel at Fort Wayne.

Indianapolis, March 25.—Indiana Roosevelt leaders will join Colonel Roosevelt at Fort Wayne Wednesday morning, and will travel with the Oyster Bay candidate to Chicago, holding a conference on the train en route. It is said word was received by former Senator A. J. Beveridge, Edwin M. Lee, Charles H. Campbell and Frederick Landis, four of the foremost Roosevelt supporters in Indiana, and that the word carried the invitation for a conference. Mr. Roosevelt is to speak at Fort Wayne twenty minutes Wednesday forenoon.

They Didn't Know.

Chicago, March 25.—Who were the twelve apostles? This easy question put to a hundred boys of Lake Forest academy left them in profound perplexity. They were undergoing examinations. One hundred questions were asked. When the papers were turned in one by one by the puzzled young men Head Master Leeds observed that the only question that none had answered correctly or even passably was: "Who were the twelve apostles?"

Wage Question Not Yet Settled.

New Bedford, Mass., March 25.—This city is a textile center of importance in New England which has not yet settled the wage question pertaining to the mill operatives, but it is confidently asserted that the matter will be amicably adjusted this week. The fine cloth mill agents followed the lead of the Fall River agents in offering an increase of 5 per cent in the pay of from 25,000 to 30,000 operatives.

Opticians Not Doctors.

Indianapolis, March 25.—Attorney General Hounan, in an unofficial opinion given to a Decatur (Ind.) optician, declared that it would be unlawful to use the term "Doctor" in connection with the business of an optician.

MAINE WRECKED BY CUBAN REBELS

This Is the Latest Tale of Historic Disaster.

THEY ACTED UNWITTINGLY

Naval Officer in Washington Tells a Story of How Rebels, Learning of Planting of Mine in Harbor, Thought to Disconcert Spaniards by Putting It Out of Commission and Fired It, Not Knowing Maine Was Over It.

Washington, March 25.—A story of the destruction of the Maine as it had been told to him by an officer who was on duty for some time in Havana subsequent to the Maine disaster, is given out by a naval officer now on duty in Washington. He said that the officer had spent much of his spare time in making a personal investigation and had developed what he declared to be to his satisfaction the following facts:

"That this mine was made either from an old buoy or boiler, charged with powder, with an electric cable attached. The authorities at Havana had made plans to blow up the Maine in the event of a declaration of war. It was surmised that in case the American government declared war, the Maine would immediately leave the harbor in order to avoid the possibility of falling a victim to mines. The mine was conveyed to a spot near the Maine on a lighter which, as was brought out in the testimony of Captain Sigbee before the Sampson court, came near fouling the battleship by reason of the current, was discovered by the captain and warned by him that she was violating the harbor regulations and was running without lights at a great risk. Sigbee had no authority over the harbor and could say no more. The men on the lighter had already accomplished their purpose and had planted the mine between two buoys marking the channel through which the Maine would be compelled to pass on her way out to sea. It was planned that no chance should be taken as to the possibility of war if the Maine should weigh anchor. Even though no war was declared and the Maine was leaving as peacefully as she came, the authorities were to take no chances on an uncertainty of future developments, but were to get even with the American government for the aid that had provided the rebels with filibustering conditions in this country and by the moral support of the American people generally. The mine was placed on the night of Feb. 14. Next day the secret fell into the hands of the rebels through the man in whose house or shed the contact button had been placed. A few rebel leaders who almost immediately learned of this, decided to take the situation into their own hands and act the following night. This prompt action was decided upon for fear that war might be declared at any moment or that the Maine might leave at any moment and that they would thus lose the aid of an important weapon of the American navy. The rebel plan was to set off the mine and thus inflame the American nation by what would appear an attempt of the government to blow up the battleship. And so shortly after nightfall the button was pressed. Nowhere was there greater consternation than among the rebels themselves when the result became known. The only explanation of how the ship came over the mine confirms that of the testimony of the court of inquiry. By a peculiar current in that channel of the harbor, caused by the trade winds at that season, the ship's anchorage had become changed every two or three days, passing almost from one buoy to another, and by this action of the current had swung over the mine at the time the button was pressed."

DRASTIC ACTION

England Will Order Out the Troops to End Coal Strike.

London, March 25.—Premier Asquith's determination to end the great coal strike by drastic military measures if necessary, whatever the owners and miners agree upon today, in addition to the fact that many families actually are facing death by starvation, is having a quieting effect. In case the striking coal miners refuse to accept the minimum wage bill at today's conference, several regiments have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness for duty.

Congress Had Rewarded Him.

Washington, March 25.—Robert F. Wynne, son of Robert Wynne, former postmaster general and consul general to London, is dead at the home of his parents in this city. Wynne, as a lieutenant in the marine corps, was a hero of the Boxer uprising, he having been awarded a medal of honor by congress for bravery in the campaign of the relief of Peking.

Intruder Shot by Woman.

Paducah, Ky., March 25.—Alarmed by a noise at her door, Miss Beulah Landrum looked out of a window, saw an intruder, grasped a gun and fatally shot him. The police identified the victim of Miss Landrum's marksmanship as Gaba Chapel, twenty-eight years old.

CAUSE FOR ALARM

Loss of Appetite or Distress After Eating a Symptom That Should Not be Disregarded.

Appetite is just a natural desire for food. Loss of appetite or stomach distress after eating indicate indigestion or dyspepsia. Over-eating is a habit very dangerous to a person's good general health.

It is not what you eat but what you digest and assimilate that does you good. Some of the strongest, heaviest, and healthiest persons are moderate eaters.

There is nothing that will cause more trouble than a disordered stomach, and many people daily contract serious maladies simply through disregard or abuse of the stomach.

We urge all in Rushville who suffer from any stomach derangement, indigestion, or dyspepsia, whether acute or chronic, to try Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, with the distinct understanding that we will refund their money without question or formality, if after reasonable use of this medicine, they are not perfectly satisfied with the results. We recommend them to our customers every day, and have yet to hear of any one who has not been benefited by them. We honestly believe them to be without equal. They give very prompt relief, aiding to neutralize the gastric juices, strengthen the digestive organs, to regulate the bowels, and thus to promote perfect nutrition, and eradicate all unhealthy symptoms.

We urge you to try a 25c. box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, which gives 15 days' treatment. At the end of that time, your money will be returned to you if you are not satisfied. Of course, in chronic cases length of treatment varies. For such cases, we have two larger sizes, which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Corner Third and Main streets.

John W. Sickelsmith, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children they frequently take cold. "We have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but never have found any yet that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by All Dealers.

Vegetables are a Factor In the Spread of Typhoid

The possibility of the conveyance of typhoid germs by means of vegetables and fruits has long been suspected, and as a result of studies in recent years evidence has been collected that such foodstuffs play an important part in the transmission of typhoid infection. Typhoid fever is a rural disease; typhoid fever patients are frequently found on farms where green vegetables are cultivated for market; and, in some localities at least, the practice is prevalent of using excreta as fertilizer to force the growth of vegetables that are intended to be eaten raw.

To determine the factors responsible for the spread of typhoid fever, it is highly important to determine how long the typhoid germ can live under natural conditions. In recent years a number of investigators, working under different conditions, have recovered this organism from previously contaminated soil after varying periods up to fifty days, and Mair regained the organism after eighty-four days from soil inclosed by glass moisture added. Since the longevity of the typhoid bacillus in unsterilized water ranges from seven to thirty days, it would seem that the soil might serve as a reservoir of infection to the stream which drains it.

The latest work on this subject is reported by Creel, who conducted experiments both within doors and in the open air, with exposure to rain and sunlight. The typhoid organism was carried up from the soil by the growing plants, and on repeated examination the organisms were recovered from the leaves and stems up to thirty-one days. A leaf of lettuce from an infected bed yielded positive cultures after three washings thus indicating that rainfalls will not free vegetables from infected material. These results have practical significance in view of the insanitary conditions on many farms. The demand for fresh vegetables being so great and the means of transportation so rapid, vegetables grown in one section may be shipped great distances and used by large numbers of persons. There is danger of the transmission of typhoid fever by this means. The Journal of the American Medical Association thinks that the inspection of truck farms would be advisable, and permits for the cultivation of vegetables for public sale might properly be withheld from all farms on which improper methods of fertilizing are practiced.

PEOPLE NOTICED IT

Last spring many of the people who know Gerald Rogers of New York, were talking about how pale and delicate he was. No one had to tell him, for he realized his bad condition.

It was spring—just the time to do something for his blood—and he decided to do it. His recent letter tells the whole story: "I was very weak, delicate and pale all spring, owing to run-down health and poor blood. But since taking Vinol my health has been built up splendidly and I have recovered my former strength. My blood is now rich and healthy and my appetite is good."

The very best spring medicine you can possibly get is Vinol, our delicious cod liver oil, because it not only purifies the blood but builds up flesh and strength and makes quantities of rich new blood.

Make up your mind right now that you will try Vinol (on our guaranty that it must please you or cost you nothing) for it will make you feel better than you have felt for years. F. B. Johnson & Co. Druggists, Rushville, Ind.

LOCOMOTIVE USED AS AN ENGINE OF DEATH

Novel Method of Warfare Adopted in Mexico.

Jimenez, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 25.—At the close of the first clash with the federals in their southward march, rebels were victors. The rebels army has 200 federals surrounded near Corralitos, which is a short distance south of here, and have captured machine guns, and hold thirty prisoners, six of whom are wounded. There are many dead on both sides, including at least one lieutenant colonel of the federals. General Gonzales Salas, commanding the federals, is wounded. He is the ex-secretary of war of Mexico and resigned the war portfolio recently to take the field and conduct the present campaign against the rebels. The rebels in the fighting destroyed the armored train of the federals, and General Camp claims that sixty federals were killed when the destruction of the train occurred.

The federals were advancing from the south onto Corralitos, at which point the rebels retreated in order to secure a better position, Corralitos being on an eminence and easily defended. The federals, numbering 2,000, were on three trains, preceded by their armored train of three cars. The rebels loaded dynamite on an engine, started it down the grade at full speed from Corralitos, and then the engineer leaped off. The engine struck the armored cars and telescoped the first one, derailling the other two. The dynamite completed the work.

Constant Squeals.

It is a strange thing to relate that men who have been in politics for years should spill so many tears and let out shouts of "thief," "fraud," "bribe" and "lie" when they lose. Nevertheless this is the policy which is being followed by the majority of the Roosevelt leaders over Indiana.

Let it be said—and proudly, too—that nothing of the sort characterized the campaign for, and election of, delegates to the State and district convention in Rush county. And the fight was as strenuous and as clearly cut here as it has been at any point in the State. But the Republicans who believed that Roosevelt should be the next presidential nominee of the party, and who were not afraid to risk their chances on that conviction, have shown themselves to be men of the kind which the Republican party wants in its ranks, men who will not resort to such tactics as appealing to the excitable element of the voters by making grandstand charges of trickery, whether or not they have a foundation for such a charge.

But such methods have characterized the campaign conducted, not only in Indiana, but all over the United States, because, after the final results of the primaries held all over Indiana Friday and Saturday to elect delegates to the State and district conventions, were announced today and show on their face that Taft delegates will be elected to the national convention from the State, and from a majority of the districts, the Roosevelt national and Indiana leaders have begun their usual cries of fraud and repeating and other charges too numerous to mention.

Edwin M. Lee, the self-appointed leader of the Roosevelt contingent in Indiana and defeated candidate for re-election to the State chairmanship has to make good, in some manner, the claims that he has been asserting both to his chieftains at Washington and to the people of Indiana at large. He has been shouting that Roosevelt would control the State convention to elect four delegates-at-large to the national convention and a big majority of the congressional districts. Now, most certainly, Mr. Lee must have something to substantiate his previous claims.

Returns from all the counties in Indiana to Indianapolis newspapers indicate that 748 delegates to the State convention will be for Taft and 646 for Roosevelt. Harry S. New, national committeeman from Indiana, asserts the majority of Taft delegates will be 200 and Edwin M. Lee says Roosevelt will have a majority of 150 delegates. The Indianapolis Star's returns reveals that Taft has carried seven of the congressional districts, and Roosevelt, six. Mr. New asserts that Taft will have a majority in nine and possibly ten, and Edwin M. Lee declares Roosevelt delegates will be chosen in nine, with a "fighting chance" in two others.

There have been some fair examples of a characteristic Rooseveltian campaign right near home. Down at Shelbyville, the home of Charlie Campbell, who has been mixed up in the Roosevelt State campaign, the Taft contingent was victorious, but not until after a hard fight. And now the Roosevelt forces are asserting they will contest the delegation.

The Roosevelt forces got control of the convention at the opening, largely because the word was passed around that the Roosevelt forces should appear early, and there was no room left in the small room for the Taft men.

The first real battle came when attorney John Walker presented a resolution that Enos Porter be indorsed as one of the national committeemen from the Sixth district. Immediately there was confusion. One voter asked Porter, who is a Roosevelt man, to declare himself as to the man he would support for president.

"I'll support the man that I think the majority of Republicans in the district want," said Porter.

The resolution was finally tabled without Porter being indorsed as a delegate to the convention. The information was given to the convention that Shelby county had no right to indorse a man for the entire district.

Charlie Campbell offered a resolution to instruct the delegates to vote for Roosevelt delegates. There was a shout, the chairman, a Roosevelt supporter, announced the "T" had it. A motion to adjourn was seconded, and the meeting was about to adjourn when Elmer Bassett insisted the vote be counted. On a fair count it resulted in a safe majority for Taft and Taft delegates will come from Shelby.

Similar attempts were made at Newcastle, but it is claimed that fifteen out of the delegation of eighteen from Henry county are for Taft.

Passing of the Carpet Tack.

A gifted poet once wrote some immortal verses on "The Song of the Shirt." At this time of the year we long wished that some versifier would tune his lyre and sing the song of the carpet tack.

It would truly be a lugubrious ditty telling of aching backs, dusty air, and the elusive and sardonic joy of the tack when he yields up his head in order to keep his feet in the floor.

Having felt through personal experience very keenly the sorrows of the taking up and putting down carpet season, it is with heartfelt emotion that we welcome the gradual disappearance of the carpet tack, due to the growing custom of using loose rugs and carpet squares. It seems quite possible that the carpet tack will pass into oblivion, that any lines the poet might offer would scarcely be understood by another generation.

Certainly cleanliness and convenience are both promoted by the new styles of floor covering. And don't get too fussy about the portion of the floor that is left uncovered by your loose rugs and carpeting. Even if they do become heel marked and worn, remember that no material is fit for the home that can't be used, and that the marks are made by the hurrying, toiling feet of those we love.

The Greensburg News might wait until it has a complaint to register. As it is generally understood by the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction Company and others in touch with the situation, the Indianapolis Trade Association does not intend to visit Brookville this week with the expressed purpose of showing its preference for the Rushville extension of the I. & C. to Cincinnati. The visit of the Trade Association has no bearing on the extension. It is in line with the plan which has been followed out by the Trade Association for years to attract more business to the jobbers and wholesalers of the State capital. They started a campaign some time ago to get more of the business from cities and towns in southeastern Indiana, Rushville, Connersville and Brookville being included, working on the theory that much of the business was going to Cincinnati. The Trade Association has already visited Connersville and Rushville and other cities in this section of the State, but has never made a trip to Brookville. The visit planned this week is in line with their campaign outlined several years ago and never completely carried out.

Government scientists have found potash enough in California to last thirty years, and the question now is how the trusts can protect their rights against the common people octopus.

The only persons who have not struck for higher wages are teachers and clergymen, but as they can earn nearly half as much as a carpenter or a plumber, they are perfectly satisfied.

The women get the suffrage in China. From the speed with which changes are being made, we imagine the children could get the right to vote if they speak up real quick.

It looks as if the bituminous miners were going to strike, and as soft coal is used so freely to decorate house paint and window curtains with, many householders will suffer.

The attorney for the Sugar Trust says he will contest every point, and we foresee that the points will be like the grains of the sugar barrel for multitude.

A San Francisco woman committed suicide because she had been caught smuggling. Too bad, just as she had qualified to enter Smart Society.

Dean Hodges of Harvard says base ball is on trial for its life. That's pretty rough, after all base ball does to keep the colleges going.

And the startling part of the primaries Friday and Saturday is that five Taft delegates were elected in Wayne county.

We always have said that we needed more snow. Who's to deny it?

Poor spring has received such a terrific blow that it is not liable to emerge from the white mantle of winter before Easter.

How's that? You think it punk? So do we. But even at that if it arrives before Easter there will be no gloom parties because sister and wife couldn't wear their new bonnets.

And besides, when we observe these bath robes that the girls have been wearing for cloaks this winter, it is with relief that we welcome any sign of spring—even a robin red-breast.

Edwin M. Lee is talking just like a man that's licked, and that is one reason it would be safe to lay about ten to one that he is.

Edwin's middle name must be Mistake.

The Newcastle Courier laments that all the clean-up days will never scare the spring fever microbe away, and we guess that's not far wrong.

But it is almost shameful to discuss such a touchy subject as spring fever on such a day as this.

They say that's not the first time the Greensburg News has gone off half-cocked either.

If we should ever get a glimpse of winter's backbone, it's a three to one shot we wouldn't spare ribs.

We have been wondering if our wives would give us what we want for dinner, if, after the Suffragette manner, we should throw some rocks through the kitchen window.

Newcastle's Big Business

(Newcastle Courier.)

The closing down of the Maxwell Briscoe factory Friday in order that all of the employees, Republicans, Democrats, Socialists and Populists, might have an opportunity to attend a Republican township convention was, to say the least, an unusual proceeding. That there was an underlying purpose in the order, which it is alleged came by wire from headquarters in New York City, goes without saying, and that plans were laid and an organization effected to carry out the wishes of those higher up became known and were plainly in evidence as the convention assembled.

To name Roosevelt delegates to the State and district convention was the avowed intention of the chosen leaders, and their attitude from the beginning showed that they would not be particular as to methods used. They were out to win and disposed to take no chances of defeat. The arrival of a large delegation of Taft men for the piano factory, and realization of the fact that they were after all, in the minority, seemed to anger and incite them to a demonstration that even their own leaders could not allow and which compelled the real business of the convention to be transacted amidst confusion and noise that made it difficult for any speaker to be heard and understood.

It is a curious circumstance that the most marked interference of the strong arm of the "Big Interests" in support of the Roosevelt campaign should appear in a contest for delegates in the city of Newcastle. The promoters of the scheme undoubtedly presumed that they could overwhelm with numbers any opposition the Taft people would dare to put up and have a great victory to boast of. But they reckoned badly and the planned hold-up? There should be an end to it, and all would-be patrons of public hostilities of whatsoever kind should have the positive assurance.

Some of the leading hotels in Chicago publish their rates, which are not questioned, but say nothing about the abominable custom of "feeling" among their waiters, which is sure to be experienced.

It is gratifying to know the press of the country is becoming interested along these lines. The wholesalers are confounded and realize the importance of action, for are not the hotels and restaurants largely dependent upon the patronage of the tens of thousands of traveling salesmen they employ?

news must go east to Mr. Perkins that the battle was lost, and it might be communicated to him at the same time that the Republicans of Henry county know something about the game of politics themselves.

STOLE CLOTHING AND GUNS

The four Italian railroad laborers, arrested at Knightstown on larceny charges, were arraigned in the circuit court Saturday before Judge Jackson and entered pleas of guilty, through their attorney, Charles O. Mogle, says the Newcastle Courier. An interpreter was present to assist in telling the story of the charges.

Sam Seisciana pleaded guilty to the charge of grand larceny and was sentenced to the Jeffersonville prison for a term of from two to fourteen years. John Mentinelli also pleaded guilty to grand larceny and was given a two to fourteen-year sentence in the State's prison at Michigan City. The two men stole guns and clothing from Nick Gaganis, an Italian camp

This matter of "tipping" is becoming so serious and so universal that very many people inclined to leave home are afraid to venture because of the prevailing custom.

Hotel accommodations are contracted for by the traveling public with no extras expected. The same is true of the restaurant, whose printed menu makes an order thoroughly understood.

The present "system" among and with all sorts of waiters is to exact or at least expect a fee, which if not complied with means trouble. Can this custom mean anything less than an insult and a well-boss at Knightstown.

Piani Manolite pleaded guilty to petit larceny and with Charles Spatari, who entered a similar plea, was sentenced to jail for ten days and ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs. They stole a number of cement sacks from the Pennsylvania Railroad Co.

Mrs. May W. Donnan's discussion of literary matters Saturday afternoon proved an invaluable review of current literature. Mrs. Donnan is no mere praiser of the past. She combines in an unusual degree the knowledge and appreciation of past greatness with the no less necessary keen discernment of contemporaneous intention and quality. The late magazines, she said, have been particularly rich in good poetry; notable in this department is John Galsworthy's metaphysical poem, "A Dream," appearing in the March Atlantic. Mrs. Donnan reviewed briefly Henri Bergson's "Laughter," a small volume in which the writer sets forth his theory of the comic. Prof. Bergson is recognized today as the first of French philosophers and one of the most potent influences of modern thought. Even those who take little interest in orthodox philosophy are reading his "Creative Evolution." Passing on to the drama Mrs. Donnan discussed "The Psychology of the Crowd." She said that because the theater audiences differ from every other audience the dramatist must make his appeal as universal as his genius will allow; that he must deal primarily with elemental things. It is a matter of regret to Mrs. Donnan's class that but one more lecture remains of the present series. Her talks serve to suggest how fresh and inexhaustive a storehouse of inspiration is at the command of the general reader. They are bristling with attractive ideals and, what is more, there is felt the force of personality which accompanies vivid impression. The last lecture will be given Friday evening, April 5.

AMUSEMENTS

The Princess will have a Biograph "Saved From Himself" as the first film tonight. The other is a Selig, "The Cowboy's Best Girl."

A number of local people will witness the performance of "The Girl of My Dreams" tonight at the Auditorium in Connersville. John Hyams and Leila McIntyre are the joint stars in the play which is presented by John M. Gaites.

The Portola offers as the first picture tonight a Vitagraph drama, "Father and Son." It is said to be a very dramatic production. The other is a Selig drama, "Merely a Millionaire."

"Tony and the Stork," an Imp drama with a strong mixture of comedy, said to be one of the most human of any recent release, is one of the pictures at the Palace tonight. The interest all centers in the actor who plays the part of Tony and the phases of his emotions when he learns an heir is to arrive; his successful search for work; his five months' absence, during which the stork has arrived; his return home and his progress to the hospital with a carriage filled with toys. Then comes an emotional feature when his wife and baby are reported dead. The startling developments not only pull on the heart strings but also create some amusement. "Baby's Choice" is a clever Solax film. It finally devolves on the baby sister of a young woman to choose between two suitors, and baby does in a most unique way which is portrayed in the picture.

Her heart throbbed again. She lifted her face from her hands and dried her tears, a warm glow stole over her and once again not altogether from the fire. Who and what was this man? Who was that woman whose picture he had taken from her? Well, she would have time to find out. And meantime the world outside could think and do what it pleased. She sat staring into the fire light, seeing pictures there, dreaming dreams. She was as lovely as an angel to the man when he came back into the room.

CHAPTER XIV.

The Woman's Heart.

That upper earth on which they lived was covered with a thick blanket of snow. The lakes and pools were frozen from shore to shore. The mountain brooks, if they flowed at all, ran under thick arches of ice. The deepest canons were well nigh impassable from huge drifts that sometimes almost rose level with the tops of the walls. In every sheltered spot great banks of white were massed. The spreading branches of the tall pine trees in the valleys drooped under heavy burdens of snow. Only here and there sharp gaunt peaks were swept clean by the fierce winter winds and thrust themselves upward in icy air, naked and bare. The cold was polar in its bitter intensity.

The little shelf or plateau jutting out from the mountain side upon which the lonely cabin stood was sheltered from the prevailing winds, but the house itself was almost covered with the drifts. The constant fire roaring up the huge stone chimney had melted some of the snow at the top and it had run down the slanting roof and formed huge icicles on what had been the eaves of the house. The man had cut away the drifts from doors and windows for light and liberty. At first every stormy night would fill his laborious clearings with drifting snow, but as it became packed down and frozen solid he was able to keep his various ways open without a great deal of difficulty. A little work every morning and evening sufficed.

Every day he had to go down the mountain stairway to the bottom of the pocket to feed and water the burros. What was a quick and simple task in milder, warmer seasons sometimes took him a half a day under the present rigorous conditions. And the woman never saw him start out in the storm without a sinking heart and grave apprehension. On his return to the cabin half frozen, almost spent and exhausted, she ever welcomed him with eager gratitude and satisfaction which would shine in her eyes, throb in her heart and tremble upon her lips, control it as she might. And he thought it was well worth all the trouble and hardships of his task to be so greeted when he came back to her.

Winter had set in unusually early and with unprecedented severity. Any kind of winter in the mountains would have amazed the girl, but even the man with his larger experience declared he had never before known such sharp and sudden cold, or such deep and lasting snows. His daily records had never shown such low temperatures nor had his observation ever noted such wild and furious storms as raged then and there. It seemed as if Nature were in a conspiracy to seal up the mountains and all they contained, to make ingress and egress alike impossible.

A month had elapsed and Enid's foot was now quite well. The man had managed to sew up her boot where the knife had cut it and although the job was a clumsy one the result was a usable shoe. It is astonishing the comfort she took when she first put it on and discarded for good the shapeless woolen stocking which had covered the clumsy bandage happily no longer necessary. Although the torn and bruised member had healed and she could use it with care, her foot was still very tender and capable of sustaining no violent or long continued strain. Of necessity she had been largely confined to the house, but whenever it had been possible he had wrapped her in his great bear skin coat and had helped her out to the edge of the cliff for a breath of fresh air.

Sometimes he would leave her there alone, would perhaps have left her alone there always had she not imperiously required his company.

Insensibly she had acquired the habit—not a difficult one for a woman to fall into—of taking the lead in the small affairs of their circumscribed existence, and he had acquiesced in her dominance without hesitation or remonstrance. It was she who ordered their daily walk and conversation. Her wishes were consulted about everything; to be sure no great range of choice was allowed them, of liberty of action or freedom in the constraints with which nature bound them, but whenever there was any selection she made it.

The man yielded everything for her and yet he did it without in any way derogating from his self-respect or without surrendering his natural independence. The woman instinctively realized that in any great crisis in any large matter, the determination of which would naturally effect their present or their future, their happiness, welfare life, he would assert himself, and his assertion would be unquestioned and unquestionable by her.

There was a delightful satisfaction to the woman in the whole situation. She had a woman's desire to lead in the smaller things in life, and yet craved the woman's consciousness that in the great emergencies she would be led, in the great battles she would be fought for, in the great dangers she would be protected, in the great perils she would be saved. There was rest, comfort, joy and satisfaction in these thoughts.

The strength of the man she mastered was estimate of her own power and charm. There was a great, sweet, voiceless, unconscious flattery in his deference of which she could not be unaware.

Having little else to do, she studied the man, and she studied him with a warm desire and an enthusiastic predisposition to find the best in him. She would not have been a human girl if she had not been thrilled to the very heart of her by what the man had done for her. She recognized that whether he asserted it or not, he had established an everlasting and indisputable claim upon her.

The circumstances of their first meeting, which as the days passed did not seem quite so horrible to her, and yet a thought of which would bring the blood to her cheek still on the instant, had in some way turned her over to him. His consideration

No Salts, Oil or Pills, But Cascarets

No Odds How Sick Your Stomach; How Hard Your Head Aches or How Bilious—Cascarets Make You Feel Great.

You men and women who somehow can't get feeling right—who have an almost daily headache, coated tongue, foul taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have back-ache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartics pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascarets tonight will straighten you out by morning—a ten-cent box from any drug store will keep your entire family feeling good for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—do good—never gripe or sicken.

of her, his gracious tenderness toward her, his absolute abnegation, his evident overwhelming desire to please her, to make the anomalous situation in which they stood to each other bearable in spite of their lonely and unobserved intimacy, by an absolute lack of presumption on his part—all those things touched her profoundly.

Although she did not recognize the fact then perhaps, she loved him from the moment her eyes had opened in the mist and rain after that awful battle in the torrent to see him bending over her.

No sight that had ever met Enid Maitland's eyes was so glorious, so awe inspiring, so uplifting and magnificent as the view from the verge of the cliff in the sunlight of some bright winter morning. Few women had ever enjoyed such privileges as hers. She did not know whether she liked the winter crowned range best that way, or whether she preferred the snowy world, glittering cold in the moonlight; or even whether it was more attractive when it was dark and the peaks and drifts were only lighted by the stars which shone never so brightly as just above her head.

When he allowed her she loved to stand sometimes in the full fury of the gale with the wind shrieking and sobbing like lost souls in some icy inferno through the hills and over the pines, the snow beating upon her, the sleet cutting her face if she dared to turn toward the storm. Generally he left her alone in the quieter moments, but in the tempest he stood watchful, on guard by her side, buttressing her, protecting her, sheltering her. Indeed his presence then was necessary, without him she could scarce have maintained a footing. The force of the wind might have hurled her down the mountain but for his strong arm. When the cold grew too great he led her back carefully to the hut and the warm fire.

Ah, yes, life and the world were both beautiful to her then, in night, in day, by sunlight, by moonlight, in calm and storm. Yet it made no difference what was spread before the woman's eyes, what glorious picture was exhibited to her gaze, she could not look at it more than a moment without thinking of the man. With the most fascinating panorama that the earth's surface could spread before human vision to engage her attention, she looked into her own heart and saw there this man!

Oh, she had fought against it at first, but lately she had luxuriated in it. She loved him, she loved him! And why not? What is it that women love in men? Strength of body?

If you have trouble in getting rid of your cold you may know that you are not treating it properly. There is no reason why a cold should hang on for weeks and it will not if you take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For sale by All Dealers.

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

FANNY CROSBY

Well Beloved Woman Passes
Her Ninety-Second Birthday.

RIGHT THINKING THE WAY TO AVERT AGE

This Is Fanny Crosby's Birthday Message.

Bridgeport, Conn., March 25.—To greet the ninety-second anniversary of her birth, Fanny Crosby, beloved throughout the nation as the "blind hymn writer," was up bright and early Sunday. No schoolgirl rejoicing on her sixteenth birthday was in gayer spirits than Miss Crosby. There were many well wishers, notably members of the Fanny Crosby circle of the King's Daughters, a church society in which she plays a prominent part. The home of her niece, Mrs. Henry D. Booth, with whom Miss Crosby resides, was deluged with beautiful floral remembrances, while dozens of letters and telegrams came to remind Miss Crosby of absent friends.

The Way to Keep Young.

"Right thinking," exclaimed Miss Crosby, "that's what keeps people young. You often hear doctors and physical culture faddists claim that the mind cannot be healthy without a healthy body. Did you ever stop to think that the reverse may be equally true? If the mind is warped by prejudice and evil thoughts and selfishness, what must be the result? You become a pessimist. Then maybe your doctor tells you your liver is bad. It isn't your liver at all, it's your mind. "That is the way to keep young. Keep your mind bright and cheerful and happy, and then you will realize the joy of living to its fullest extent."

Archie Will Wait.

Rome, March 25.—Major Archibald Butt, military aide to President Taft, has deferred his departure from Rome until tomorrow, in order to wait for a letter which the pope is preparing to send to the American chief executive.

CONFLICT OF JURISDICTION

Federal and State Authorities
In Decisive Clash

UP TO COMMERCE COMMISSION

The Interstate Commerce Commission Has Ruled So Directly Against a State Railroad Commission as Virtually to Strip the Latter Body of Jurisdiction or Authority in the Way of Rate Adjustment.

Washington, March 25.—The longest step ever taken by the federal body in the direction of curtailing the powers of state railroad commissions is the decision just handed down by the interstate commerce commission. This decision, if sustained, will, it is contended, lead to the elimination of state railroad commissions or leave them with comparatively little jurisdiction or authority.

The decision is one of the most important and far-reaching in its possible effects that the commission has ever handed down.

"If the power here asserted exists in this commission, then every state rate can be controlled by it," said Commissioner Clements, in a dissenting opinion.

The decision is in a case brought by the railroad commission of Louisiana. The St. Louis Southwestern Railway company and other carriers are named as defendants, but the real defendant in the case is the railroad commission of Texas, inasmuch as the rates against which complaints were made which have now been set aside by the interstate commerce commission, were fixed by it.

Up to the Commerce Court.

This case puts the entire question of a conflict of jurisdiction between the interstate commerce commission and the state commission squarely up to the United States commerce court. Eventually the decision will bring the question before the United States supreme court in a more comprehensive manner than is presented by the well-known Minnesota rate case now pending before the court.

The complaint in the case was that the railroads make rates out of Dallas and other Texas points into southern Texas much lower than rates from Shreveport, La., into Texas. As an instance, it is stated that a rate of 60 cents carries first class traffic to the eastward from Dallas a distance of 160 miles, while the same rate of 60 cents will carry the same class of traffic but fifty-five miles into Texas from Shreveport. The complaint asked the commission for reasonable adjustment of rates ending the alleged unjust discrimination practiced by these interstate railroads.

The decision of the commission, which was written by Commissioner Lane, says that the evidence supports the theory of the Louisiana commission that the Texas commission is acting in favor of the jobbing interests in Texas.

ERDMAN ACT

May Be Amended to Give President Power to Settle Strikes.

Washington, March 25.—An effort will be made to rush through congress a bill authorizing the president to mediate in the coal strikes. This proposition will be in the form of an amendment to the Erdman act, which now gives the United States commissioner of labor and the chairman of the interstate commerce commission authority to act as mediators in railroad strikes affecting interstate traffic. The amendment will be introduced in the house by Representatives O'Donohue and Lee of Pennsylvania. It will be designed, of course, to give the president authority to offer his service as mediator in the event of the failure of negotiations to avert the coal strike. The two Pennsylvania representatives called at the White House and notified the president of their intention. No authoritative statement was made at the White House, but it is said that the president favors the proposition.

BOARD URGES USE OF MAPLE TREES

Bulletin Issued by Secretary Charles C. Deam Decries Careless Planting by Hoosiers.

CO-OPERATION IS INVITED

Pointed Out That Sugar Maple is Best and Hardest Shade Tree Known.

That the hard or sugar maple is the best kind of shade trees to plant in Indiana streets is the assertion of the State Board of Forestry in its bulletin just prepared for the press. Charles C. Deam, secretary of the board, urges the relegation of the softer varieties of maple because of their liability to attack by many kinds of insects.

The bulletin pleads for a rejuvenation of interests in shade trees in all parts of the State and decries the planting of such temporary trees as the Carolina poplars and soft maples. "The time has come when we should plant the best kind of trees and properly care for them," the bulletin asserts. The bulletin says:

"The maples are used in Indiana more extensively for shade tree purposes than all other kinds of trees combined. There are four kinds used. The silver-leaf and red maple, commonly called the soft maples, are most frequently planted on account of their rapid growth. Their use should be discontinued because they are subject to the deadly attack of several common insect pests and they grow long slender branches which frequently break off when loaded with ice. The Norway maple has recently been introduced, but is too low-headed to make a desirable shade tree.

"Our native sugar maple is by far the best kind of maple to plant along a street unless a small tree is desired. It will adapt itself to all kinds of soil, except a wet and undrained one. However, it grows best on a moist or dry, porous soil. The sugar maple has as yet been able to resist its insect enemies.

"The trees for planting should be secured from the nursery and not be over eight feet high. Trees from the nursery will have a better root system and are not as likely to sun scald and are not as likely to be killed by the tree should sun scald, that is, a part of the body die, it is better to plant another tree than keep the defective one which will begin to decay and die early.

"When planting the tree do not cut off the top. All pruning should be confined to taking off the lower branches until the head of the tree is 10 to 12 feet above the ground.

"Shade trees as a rule are planted too close. A seventy foot lot should not have more than two trees. After the tree is carefully planted place some kind of protection around it.

"A booklet on the selection, planting and care of shade trees may be had free by writing the State Board of Forestry at Indianapolis."

The secretary of the board invites Indiana property owners to co-operate with the State board in studying the best kinds of shade trees to plant in yards, on streets and in groves in Indiana.

word that kills dirty politics and all other wrongs, declared the speaker.

"People are classed as fools when they are not. They are not unsincere, not fanatics. Tom L. Johnson was one of these men. He was called a fanatic but he was simply living ahead of his time. Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver is one of these men. He is a type of man, who is trying to make religion a seven day affair instead of one. He has had to endure a great deal and the people have tried to make a martyr of him. Every victory he has won at the polls has been on an independent ticket. Denver is one city that is coming to the front as women suffrage indicates. I believe in women suffrage. Man may have his honest convictions and speak his thoughts. Those that differ and do not agree with me should not knock—instead, we should be friends."

"When women have the right to vote in America, which will be 'dry.' We are becoming idealists. As a student of psychology, I think we always become what we think most about. From the experiences of other people I have found that colleges do not make fools—they develop them."

In closing Mr. Fletcher stated that the boys and girls of today are what their fathers and grandfathers were—martyrs to foolishness. Many a child is forced to suffer because of the father or mother's foolishness. Mr. Fletcher declared that it was better to live alone with a green parrot or a canarie than to marry a drunken sot.

The Lucas orchestra gave a program before the lecture. A quartette composed of J. Walter Wilson, E. B. Thomas, B. F. Miller and F. R. McClannahan were forced to respond to several encores. Prof. J. H. Schell was chairman of the meeting and introduced the speaker.

Coroner A. G. Shauck Holds no Inquest in Probe of Harris Mystery Today.

CONTINUES TO GET CLEWS

There was no inquest held today in connection with the investigation which Coroner A. G. Shauck is making into the mysterious death of Mrs. L. B. Harris. It was stated today that the coroner would likely be in Rushville tomorrow and that some more witnesses would be examined. The coroner was not in Rushville today and it is understood that he did little to solve the mystery. He is continually being sought out by people who have various theories for the fire and death, and he is attempting to ferret out each clew which is given him. There is no certainty as to when the final verdict will be returned.

JUDGE OF 5 COURTS.

Judge Alonzo Blair of the Rush-Shelby circuit court, has a record in the local court, made one day recently, when he presided over five courts in less than nine hours, says the Shelbyville Republican. During this time he was judge a short time in the juvenile court; sat as judge in a civil case in the circuit court; acted as judge in a probate matter, and was also judge in an equity court, giving a decision in an injunction proceeding and during the day a prisoner came before him and pleaded guilty to a criminal charge and was sentenced.

HEAVIEST SNOW FOR SEASON SINCE 1893

Fall Estimated at 8 Inches in Depth Hinders Traffic and Impairs Telephone Service.

ON THE HEELS OF RAIN STORM

The heaviest snowfall for this season of the year since 1893 covered Rush county with a mantle of white yesterday. The snow came on the heels of a several hours' steady downpour of rain and a sudden lowering of the temperature. The depth of the snow here was estimated at eight inches, which is one of the heaviest of the last winter. The snow fell in less than two hours. It was so damp and heavy that traffic to and from Rushville was impeded to a great extent, and most people remained indoors all day. Trains were late and the telephone service over the county was hindered.

The weather bureau can not see indications of any more snow or rain for this vicinity tomorrow, but it seemed likely there would be more snow in the northern part of the State. The prediction is fair weather with a little moderate temperature. The thermometer recorded eighteen degrees above zero last night. The ice which had covered the trees and wires in last week's storm melted Saturday night and thus saved the lives of thousands of trees which were swayed by the high wind, which came a few hours later, bringing colder weather with it.

Coal dealers say there is little danger of a famine for domestic use if the cold weather does not hang on too long. Users of coal during the summer are laying in a supply to hold over the strike.

EXPLAINED THINGS

When Charlie Smith Met the Minister Today.

"Say, old man, I went to church yesterday to please my wife and what you said about nickel theaters was a plenty. Now, I want to show you something. Come on with me down to the Palace. The first thing that impresses you is the courteous employes and their solicitous attention to the ladies and children. Then, they give a good, clean show. My wife attends every time she goes out shopping and what's good enough for my better half is good enough for the preacher. When I've a nickel and want to spend it, I go to the Palace. There's some class to this theater. You can see it from the outside."
